Returning to Work in the COVID-19 Environment

What It Means for Your Business & Employees

As some states begin to lift “shelter in place” orders or re-evaluate which industries are considered “essential”, it is critical to have a plan in place to restart businesses and bring facilities back online. On Friday, April 24, USI Chairman and CEO Mike Sicard shared an important update for clients and other business leaders regarding returning to work in the COVID-19 environment, and what it means for businesses and employees.

This 28-minute webinar on demand covers guidance for creating a 4 Step Essential Return to Work Plan, including:

1. Preparing the work force – Employee considerations and implementing a phased-in return strategy
2. Preparing the workspace – Protocols for safely reopening facilities (including potential employee testing) and OSHA risk classifications
3. Managing a physical distancing environment – Including a multi-point plan for implementation
4. Adapting your strategy – Staying responsive as medical advances develop in testing, treatment and prevention.
